

15) Workshop based on Research Methodology: Research Proposal Writing For Funded Projects

Funded Research Grants. Do they really enhance or hinder research? Why is this research important, and why should it be funded? These are all some questions lingering in the minds of every faculty. With the perspective of finding some meaningful answers to these questions, the Department of DPS has taken the onus of winning funds from various research agencies. In this regard, at first a baby step has been taken i.e. How to write research proposals appropriately for getting funding assistance?

To answer the above Prof. Dr DNS Kumar was invited to share his thought process and to offer valid suggestions and methods of accomplishing the same. During his session he highlighted the importance of research activities in an academic institution with various citations. He added further the various Forms, Categories and Methods by which a faculty member can contribute towards research. Right from the development of a research proposal, till its tail end including the sequence of writing a research proposal with the do's and don'ts were explained.
