

31. Workshop based on skill development: Language and Communication-The tool and purpose

A workshop on “Language and Communication – The Tool and The Purpose” was conducted exclusively for the first and the second year UG students of all programs under the Department of Professional Studies on 23.11.2021 (Tuesday). Dr. K Shantichitra, writer, short film director and an associate professor & head of the Department of English, Faculty of Humanities & Sciences, SRM Institute of Technology, acted as the resource person for the workshop and discussed in detail about choosing appropriate language for effective communication. She elaborated on how language works through oral, print and visual medium and how communication can be really effective if the speaker keeps in mind the personality and experiences of the receiver with whom he or she is communicating. The students found the session quite interesting and during the question and answer session, posed quite a number of questions and queries they had with respect to the doubts in communicating effectively with different types of people. The workshop was held on the CISCO Webex Event platform and the number of students who attended the workshop was close to four hundred. A feedback link was sent to all the attendees and on filling up the feedback form, e-certificates were generated and sent to the attendees registered email ids.
